

Hooria and the Emergency Period Kit

A Story of Preparedness, Dignity, and Community Support

1 A Day at the University

Hooria was a hardworking and responsible student. She always arrived at the university on time, completed her assignments before deadlines, and made the best use of her day. Whenever she had free time, she would go to the library, where she loved reading books and working on her academic tasks.

One afternoon, Hooria was sitting quietly in the library, focused on her studies. The library was calm, and she was enjoying her productive day.

Figure 1: Hooria enjoying a productive study session in the library.

Suddenly, she felt uncomfortable and realized that her period had started unexpectedly.

2 An Unexpected Problem

Hooria became anxious. She had not brought any sanitary products with her. Although there were many female students around her, she felt too shy and embarrassed to ask anyone for help.

She thought about going to the university canteen, but unfortunately, sanitary products were not available there. Her closest friends were also not on campus at that moment, so she had no one she felt comfortable reaching out to. As the minutes passed, Hooria became more worried. She did not know what to do.

Figure 2: The sudden realization and search for a discreet solution in the campus hallway.

3 A Helpful Discovery

Then, something came to her mind.

A few days earlier, she had seen an advertisement in her university WhatsApp group. Without thinking much about it, she had saved the advertisement on her phone. Quickly, she opened her gallery and found it.

The advertisement was from Floravia Pal, an initiative that provided Emergency Period Kits for students facing unexpected situations just like hers. Without wasting any time, Hooria contacted Floravia Pal and reached their service point.

Figure 3: Connecting with Floravia Pal and receiving the emergency kit.

The Floravia Pal team warmly welcomed her and provided her with an Emergency Period Kit.

What's Inside the Kit?

Inside the kit were all the essential items she needed to restore her peace of mind:

- Sanitary pads
- Tissue papers
- Disposal bags
- Hand sanitizer
- Other hygiene essentials

Hooria immediately felt relieved. The anxiety and stress she had been experiencing disappeared.

4 A Happy Ending

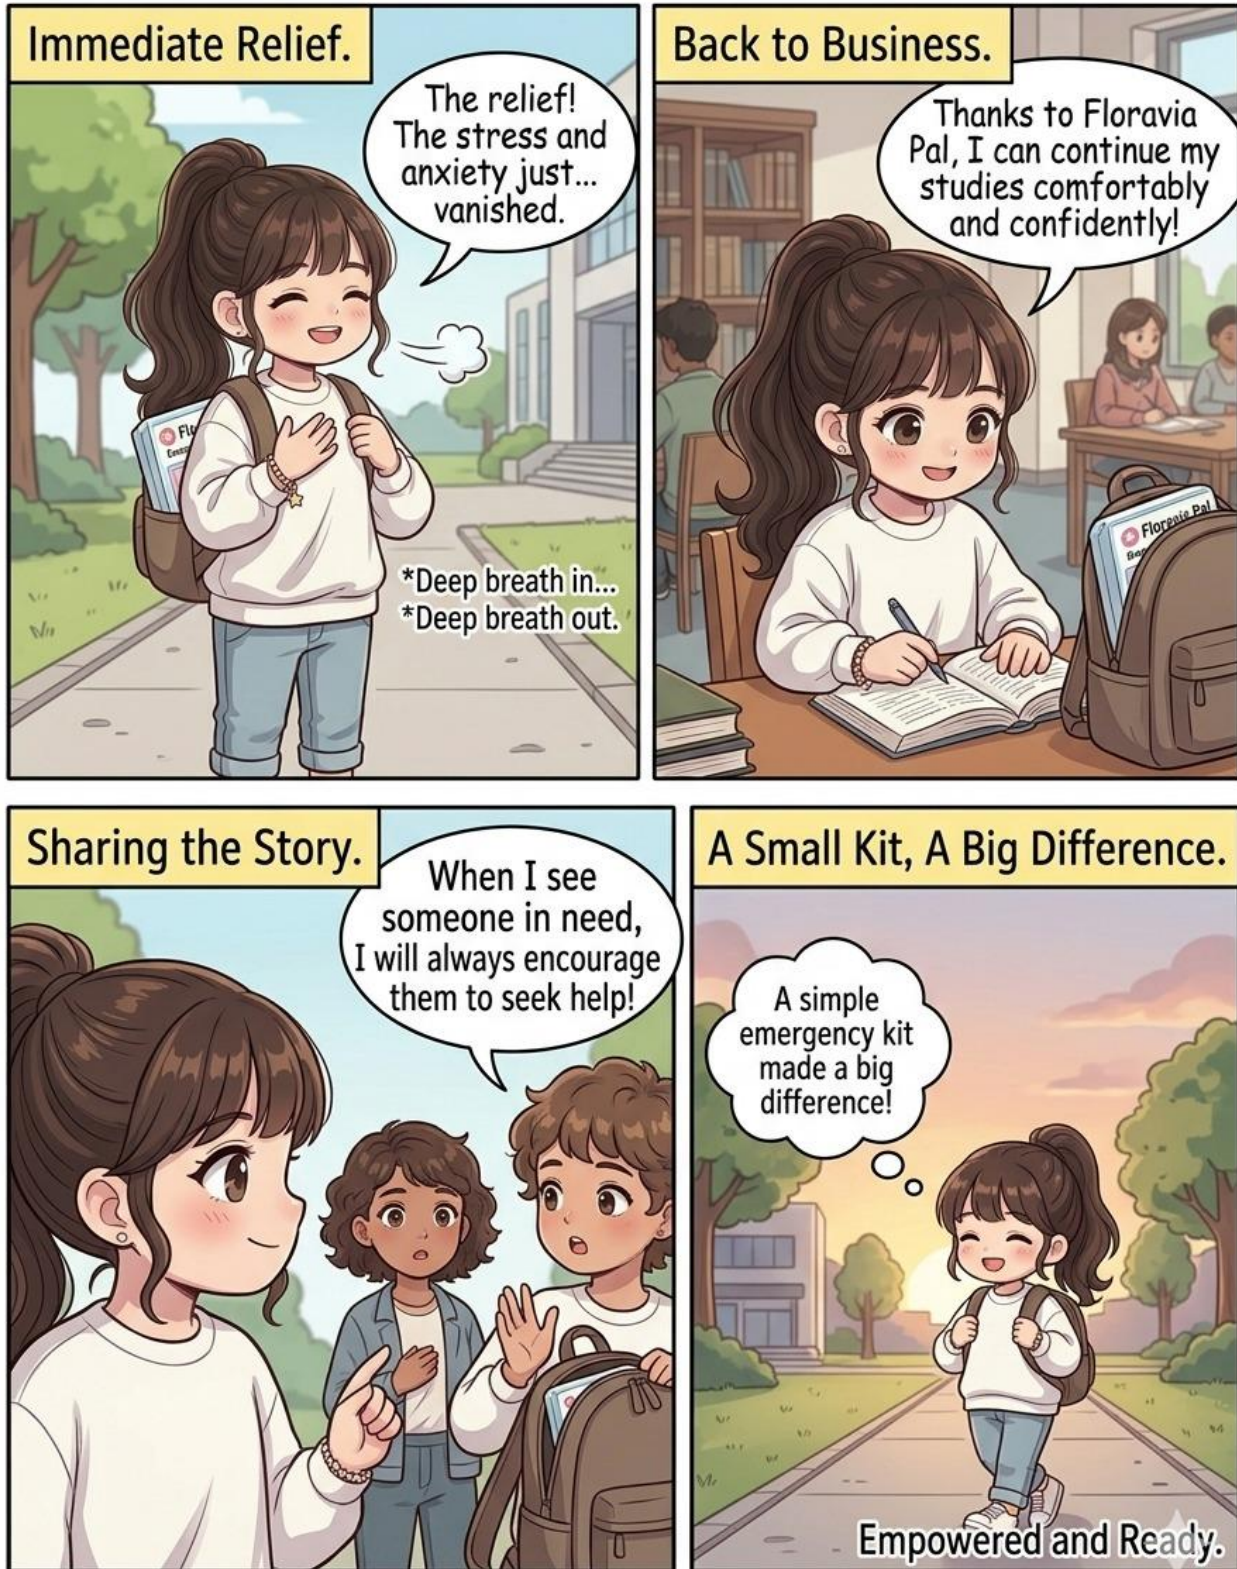

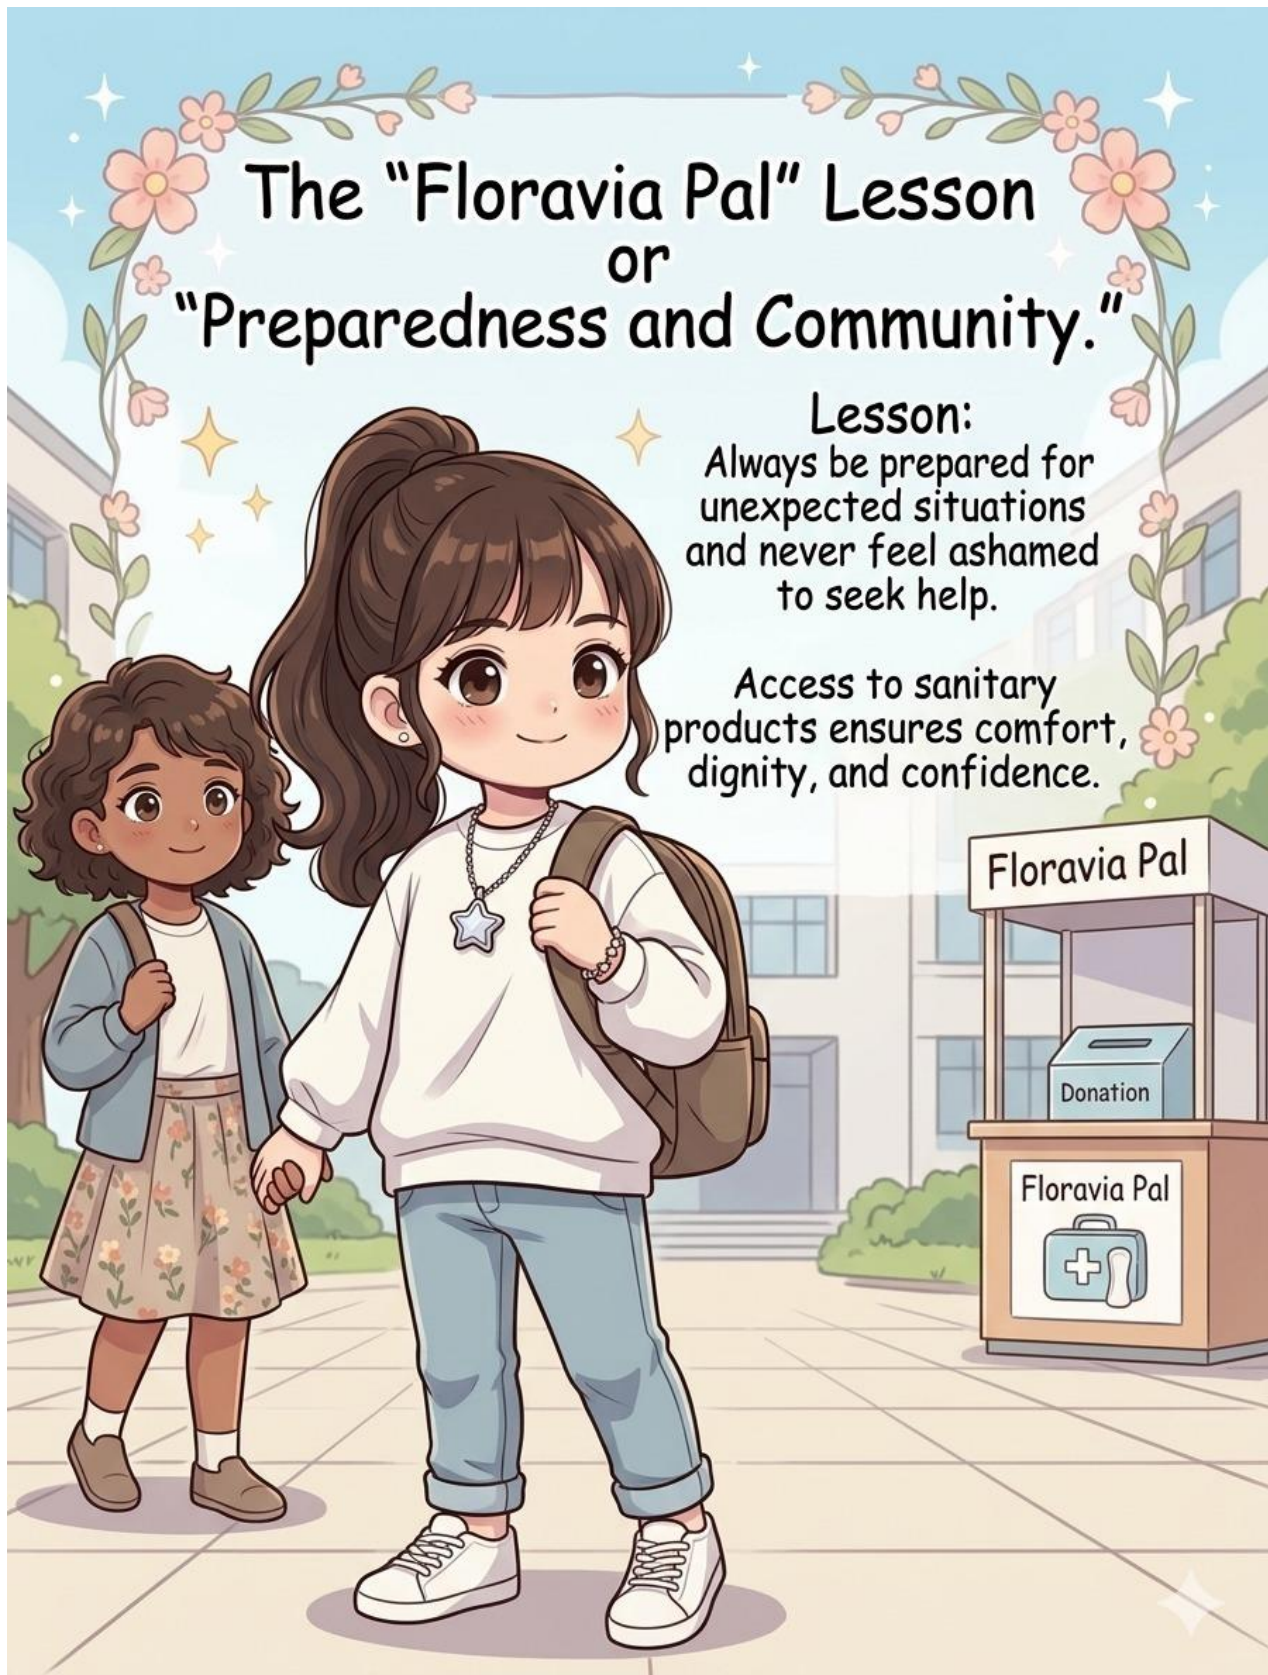

Figure 4: Relief, recovery, and sharing the empowering message with other students.

Thanks to Floravia Pal, Hooria was able to continue her day comfortably and confidently. She returned to her classes and studies without any worries.

As she walked home that evening, she smiled and thought about how a simple emergency kit had made such a big difference. From that day onward, Hooria knew that no student should have to face period emergencies alone.

Whenever she saw someone in need, she encouraged them to seek help without hesitation. Because sometimes, a small act of support can turn a stressful day into a manageable one.

5 The Floravia Pal Lesson

Figure 5: Floravia Pal's structural message of support and preparedness.

Core Takeaway: Preparedness & Community

Always be prepared for unexpected situations and never feel ashamed to seek help.

This story highlights how important it is to have easy access to sanitary products in educational institutions and workplaces where females are present. The availability of such basic hygiene products is essential for comfort, dignity, and confidence, and helps ensure that no one faces unnecessary stress during emergencies.